Kelli Mix, Professional Poker Player and Author, Featured In Televised Tournament

The Game Day Poker Almanac Official Rules of Poker author hosts annual event

DENVER — Kelli Mix, professional poker player and author of The Game Day Poker Almanac Official Rules of Poker, will host the Second Annual Kelli Mix CASA Poker Classic at the AMVETS Post 99 in Carrollton, GA, starting at 12:00 pm on November 15, 2008. ESPN will be televising the final table of this event.

In addition to hosting the tournament and featuring her book, Mrs. Mix will also be providing personal Texas Hold'em poker lessons for tournament participants. The Poker Classic offers a $2,500.00 prize to the winner, pay to all players who finish in the top 10%, and door prizes throughout the tournament. Players of all skill levels are invited to register online via the website www.kellimix.com; tournament registration is limited to 200 players.

The Kelli Mix CASA Poker Classic benefits Carroll County CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates), an organization of screened and trained volunteers who advocate for the best interests of children involved in juvenile court deprivation proceedings.

Since its publication, the Official Rules of Poker has been the leading poker rules book on Amazon.com, outselling all competitors.

Kelli Mix writes regularly for Bluff Magazine. Her next article, currently scheduled for the January issue, is tentatively titled "Chess Strategy For Poker." She is scheduled to take over sole responsibility the regular Bluff column, "The Amateur's Mind." Mrs. Mix also serves as the Georgia State Director for the Poker Players Alliance, which currently has over 1 million members.
